I can't believe it – but my grandmother finally did it!

It happened yesterday. At school we talked about the class party before the school year ends. Everybody must bring something. I said that I would bring grandma's wonderful apple pie. It's the best apple pie in the world.

When I came home I phoned grandma but she was not at home. I phoned her again and again. No answer. Well, my grandma is a very busy lady. She works in her garden, goes shopping and swimming and meets her friends every Thursday evening to go to the cinema. She doesn't look like a grandmother. Her clothes and hairstyle are very modern. She has a big, new TV and she collects DVDs. She chats on the Internet and has her own website. The only thing she never uses is her mobile. My parents gave her a mobile for Christmas but she didn't like it. She put it in the box under her bed.

But yesterday I really needed her because: no grandma, no apple pie!

At 8 o'clock in the evening our doorbell rang. It was grandma. I was so happy to see her. She had gone to a big mobile phone shop and bought a smartphone, the new Berry 9!

I couldn't believe it. She had bought the best smartphone that is on the market. She didn't like the mobile my parents gave her because it was a mobile for older people and had big buttons and a big display. It made her really angry because it made her feel old.

The rest of the evening was great. I showed her how to use her new smartphone and she made a big apple pie for my party.

I'm so happy to have such a great grandma!
